Once Upon a Time, a cute girl was born to a noble couple. She was named Cinderella. That girl, despite troublesome times, quickly grew up into a very beautiful girl.

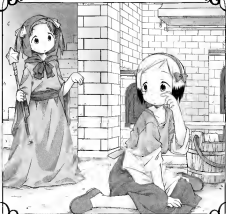

Suddenly, her kind mother unexpectedly died from illness. Her new stepmother and her two daughters were very mean, and picked on Cinderella every day.

Especially on Thursdays and Fridays.

One day, at the Prince's Castle, a ball was being held to find for him a bride. The greedy step-sisters put on makeup and wore beautiful dresses so that they would be chosen as his bride. They left for the ball, leaving Cinderella by herself.

Cinderella was sad that she would not be going to the ball.

Then, her fairy godmother appeared.

"Cinderella, stop your crying."

"Cinderella, stop your crying," she repeated.

"I will take you to the party. Catch me a mouse and bring me a pumpkin."

Cinderella did as she was told, and brought a pumpkin and a mouse to the fairy godmother. The fairy godmother waved her wand! Oh, how amazing!

The pumpkin transformed into a carriage.

The mouse that she had worked so hard to catch remained as it was.

When Cinderella asked the fairy godmother, she replied "I didn't really need the mouse. I knew that all along."

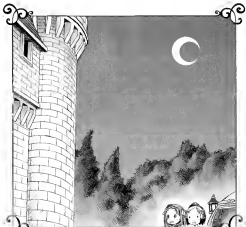

The fairy godmother waved her wand again, and outfitted Cinderella with a very beautiful dress and beautiful glass slippers.

"Oh, how wonderful! Thank you, fairy godmother."

Cinderella thanked the fairy godmother.

The fairy godmother replied, "This doesn't look at all like what you should wear to exterminate demons."

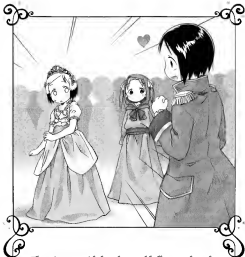

Riding the carriage, the fairy godmother brought Cinderella to the castle.

"Oh, what a magnificent castle!"

"Ah, I forgot to tell you something important-Tiger. Listen up, Cinderella. After 12 O'Clock, the spell will be broken, and everything will go back to normal-Tiger. So before that-Tiger..."

The fairy godmother had begun taking to adding "tiger" to the end of all her sentences.

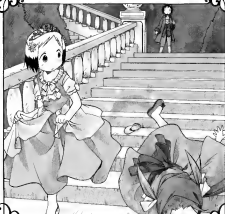

The pair were guided to the grand ballroom, where the beautiful Cinderella soon caught the Prince's eye.

*"How beautiful you are! Let us dance together."
The fairy godmother pretended to look normal, but in actuality, she was standing on tiptoe.*

*The Prince took Cinderella's hand.
She forget about the time and enjoyed herself dancing, as her frustrated step-sisters stood to one side. They received much applause from those around them, offering their blessings. The fairy godmother watched it all.*

*And then, the 12 O'Clock bell rang.
Ding dong! Ding dong!
Cinderella remembered the fairy godmother's words.
"I'm sorry, Prince. I must hurry... goodbye."
She rushed out from the ballroom and dashed down the stairs. One of the glass slippers came loose from her foot. The fairy godmother, tripping on the slipper, fell down the stairs.*

The prince continued to think of Cinderella as he stared at the glass slipper she dropped.

"That princess is, without a doubt, the bride I have been searching for."

The prince, making up his mind, gave an order to his servants.

"You must find the girl on whom this glass slipper fits perfectly, pffft, and bring her to me!"

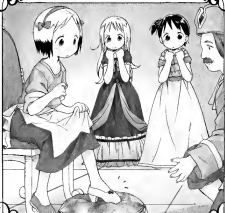

The Prince blew his nose on the important part.

His servants traveled all over the country, asking everyone, but the glass slipper did not fit even one of the girls.

Then, finally, they arrived at Cinderella's house.

The step-sisters tried to force the slipper on, but it would not fit no matter how hard they pushed their feet. The fair godmother fell down the stairs.

Then, Cinderella, who had been cleaning, came out from her room. The step-sisters desperately tried to interfere, but upon seeing her beauty, the servant said without hesitation "Please, try it on."

Cinderella's foot fit the slipper perfectly. "Oh! Without a doubt, this very lady must be the bride the prince has been searching for!"

The fairy godmother married the prince, and they lived happily ever after.
